HARRY GLICKMAN

The middle name of Harry Glickman, executive vice president of the Portland Trail Blazers, is not "Sellout."

But it wouldn't be a bad choice.

It's fairly common knowledge that the Trail Blazers closed out their 1984-85 season with their 357th consecutive sellout crowd of 12,666 in Memorial Coliseum. It is also fairly common knowledge that the sellout string is an all-time National Basketball Association record. It should be common knowledge that Glickman was the driving force behind the acquisition of Oregon's first major league franchise.

It may not be common knowledge that there was life for Glickman before the Trail Blazers and that for the most part the theme was the same — sellout — or darned close to it. Let's start at the beginning. Glickman's background is all Oregon. He was born in Portland and attended Lincoln High School where he played varsity basketball. If pressed, he will inform you that in one game he was successful on all five shots from the floor.

Glickman was graduated from the University of Oregon in 1948. He served as the school's publicity director in the Cotton Bowl days of the late Norm Van Brocklin, who was one of Glickman's close friends.

Glickman first tried to be a sports writer. But there were no openings in Portland. So he moved into promotion, founding Oregon Sports Attractions in 1952. He promoted chiefly boxing, professional football, the Harlem Globetrotters. And now you're talking about sellouts again. The Globetrotters virtually always sold out. Boxing was at its peak in Oregon when Glickman was promoting in that field.

And pro football?

In the 1950s and '60s, Glickman made Portland the professional football capital of the nation — outside, of course, the National Football League cities.

Exhibitions in Portland drew an average of better than 25,000 a game in an era when games in other cities frequently drew crowds in the 5,000 to 10,000 range.

Glickman was manager in 1958 and 1959 of Multnomah Civic Stadium.

Then came Glickman's next major move in sports. In the fall of 1960, Glickman brought professional hockey back to Portland after an absence of a decade. He organized the Portland Buckaroos of the old Western Hockey League. The Buckaroos were a smash hit both on the ice and at the box office. In the decade of the '60s, the Buckaroos finished first seven times and second twice in one nine-season stretch. And they smashed every attendance record in professional hockey outside the then tightly-knit six-team National Hockey League.

Next up — the Portland Trail Blazers.

The beginning, incidentally, wasn't a bed of roses. In January of 1970 Glickman went to the league meetings of the NBA in Philadelphia with backing for a franchise. But he found the ground rules had changed and the ante had been increased.

And he came back to Portland empty-handed. But a month later, with new financial backing, the Portland franchise was born at a meeting in Los Angeles.

Glickman is active in civic affairs in Oregon.

He is on the board of directors of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Oregon, the U.S. Committee Sports for Israel and the Sixth-Man Foundation.

He is on the board for trustees of Congregation Beth Israel.

And his is a member of the advancement Council of the School of Journalism of the University of Oregon.

Glickman and his wife, Joanne, have two daughters, Lynn and Jennifer, and a son, Marshall. Marshall is a cable operations manager of the Trail Blazers, and Jennifer is a publicity assistant with the club.

Glickman's hobbies include golf, tennis and fishing, and he is the author of a book, 'Promoter Ain't a Dirty Word.'

But his main hobby is selling out. He is successful at it.

STU INMAN

Suppose a new rule forced each NBA player back to the team that originally drafted that player. If that was the case, the Blazers would have too many players.

During this past season, a total of 22 players that were drafted by Portland were active in the NBA. The average for other teams is only 12.

The chief architect of the Blazer's draft has been Stu Inman. Since 1970, the success of Inman, now Vice President and General Manager of the Blazers, has been phenomenal.

His first choice for Portland in 1970 was Geoff Petrie of Princeton. And Petrie wound up sharing Rookie of the Year honors in the NBA with Dave Cowens of Boston.

Inman's first pick in 1971 was Sidney Wicks, UCLA product who won Rookie of the Year honors.

In Portland's 15 NBA seasons, eight draft selections of Inman have won All Rookie honors — Petrie in 1971, Wicks in 1972, Lloyd Neal in 1973, Hollins in 1976, Mychal Thompson and Brewer in 1979, Ransey in 1981 and Bowie in 1985.

Inman, who grew up in the San Francisco Bay area, is a Trail Blazer original. And almost by accident.

When an NBA franchise was granted to Portland in February of 1970, there were only a couple of months to put together Portland's first draft, and the college season was almost over. Inman came highly recommended and signed up, really as a temporary scout. Four of Inman's first draft choices made the club. Two years later Inman was named a Portland vice president.

Inman in a 1950 graduate of San Jose State, where he played basketball as a 6-5 center.

In fact, he's still the school's all-time scoring champion — a remarkable accomplishment considering that scores were much lower in that era. (Yes, he also holds the San Jose State all-time record for personal fouls.) The Spartans were tough, too, in Inman's undergraduate days, posting records of 19-9, 23-9, 22-12 and 21-7 for an overall 85-37.

Later Inman was to coach San Jose State from 1957 through 1966.

Inman is a member of the school's Sports Hall of Fame and also was elected to the Fresno County Hall of Fame. It was in Fresno where Inman started his coaching career in high school.

Inman is an old hand at international basketball clinics, is well known in Europe, the Orient and Australia.

Inman and his wife, Elinor, have four daughters — Nancy, Sandy, Janice and Carol — and a son, David.

Players from the 1984-85 season that were originally drafted by the Blazers:

Cream of Broccoli Soup

Cut 1 lb broccoli into spears. Steam lightly (reserve water from steaming). Puree broccoli with one onion, chopped fine. Add with reserved water to 4 c. homemade chicken stock in heavy 3 qt. pot. In separate pot melt 5 T butter. Whisk 3 T. flour into butter. When it is a smooth paste, slowly add 1 c. whipping cream, whisking until smooth. Add to soup pot with 1 T. lemon juice. Salt and pepper to taste. Let soup simmer till very hot. DO NOT BOIL!

THRIFTWAY

JON SPOELSTRA

His name appears on the credits on the televised games as Executive Producer, but that's really a small portion of his job. Spoelstra is entering his seventh season as Vice President of Marketing, a job that encompasses all aspects of television, radio, cable and advertising. He is also involved in the sales of Coliseum tickets, the Blazer Newspaper Feature Service and in developing community service projects.

The 15-person marketing department that Spoelstra heads has become a vital department for the Blazers, providing important operating income to help cover player salaries and expenses.

Spoelstra is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame. He and his wife, Lisa, have a daughter, Monica, a sophomore at Notre Dame. Their son, Erik, is a sophomore at Jesuit High School.

GEORGE RICKLES

Rickles is a Blazer original. This is his 16th season with the Blazers, now serving as Vice President of Administration. Administration in this case means far more than office operations — Rickles is in charge of the lifeblood of the Blazer business operation, ticket sales.

Previous to his Blazer career, Rickles handled for 13 years the ticket operations for the Portland Buckaroos. He helped set the attendance records for the Western Hockey League club.

Perhaps from being around arenas most of his life, the noted amateur chef has developed a special gourmet popcorn. Unfortunately for Blazer fans, the hybred kernal is too limited for mass consumption. Rickles has three sons, Norman and Steve, both Portland attorneys, and Jerry, with a local record store. His wife, Sharla, is a registered nurse.

KEN BARTELL

This is Bartell's second season on the Blazer staff. As Vice President of Finance, Bartell supervises all financial business. Additionally, Bartell was the key person in installing the most sophisticated computer operations in the NBA. The computer applications range from accounting to tickets to marketing and even scouting.

Bartell was previously General Manager of radio station, KEX. He formerly had served as the station's business manager for five years.

He started his business career with Sheraton Hotels, serving as controller. With Sheraton, he traveled worldwide, spending extended periods in various cities in the United States and Puerto Rico.

His wife, Kathleen, was formerly Media Manager of the Blazers.

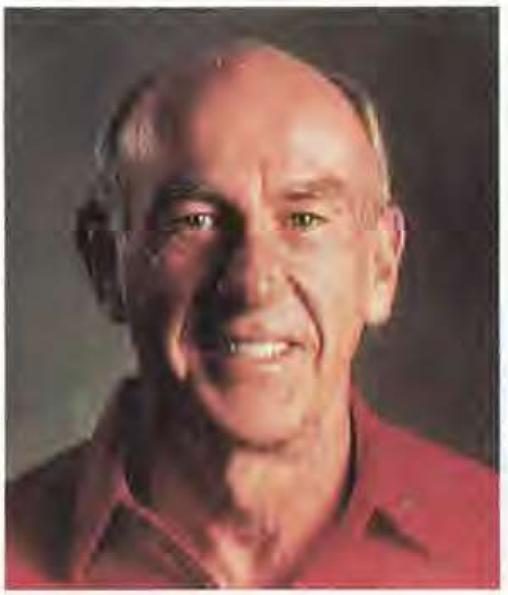
JACK RAMSAY



It was an isolated incident that took place late in Portland's final Northwest Summer League game against the Seattle SuperSonics.

Yet it told a story.

Rick Adelman was the coach of the Blazers' summer league entry. Jack Ramsay was an observer, making mental notes as he watched the action. And for 47 minutes and 58 seconds of that final game, Ramsay remained an observer. With 2 seconds left to play, Portland led 104-102. Seattle had the ball out of bounds. The game could be tied.

Ramsay no longer could stand it. He was in the middle of the Blazer huddle. What he said was not recorded. But he was talking. With victory or defeat on the line, even in a summer league, Ramsay's intensity took over.

And intensity is the middle name of this coach who finished the 1984-85 season with 745 career victories to continue to rank No. 1 among active NBA coaches. His closest competitors are Gene Shue of Washington with 725 and Dick Motta of Dallas with 709. Only retired Red Auerbach won more games, 938, than Ramsay. And Ramsay is still winning.

The Portland Trail Blazers were in the playoffs last spring for the eighth time in nine seasons with Ramsay as coach. Only Los Angeles and Philadelphia have made more playoff appearances than the Blazers in those nine seasons. Going back to his coaching days in Buffalo, Ramsay now has guided teams to the playoffs in 11 of the last 12 seasons. No other coach in the National Basketball Association can make that statement.

Ramsay coached Portland to the world's championship in 1977 and to the best regular-season record in the league in 1978.

Before joining the professional ranks, Ramsay coached for 11 seasons at St. Joseph's in Philadelphia. His teams won 234 and lost 72 for a winning percentage of .765. He never had a losing season and coached his clubs to 10 major post-season tournaments.

A 1949 graduate of St. Joseph's, where he played basketball and was team captain as a senior, Ramsay coached his alma mater from 1955-56 through 1965-66.

Ramsay is married and he and his wife, Jean, have three daughters and two sons.

Ramsay is a strong advocate, to put it mildly, of physical fitness. And he is a leader by example. Virtually every day of his life Ramsay rides a bicycle or swims or runs or lifts weights. Often he does a combination of two or more.

Ramsay calls physical fitness "absolutely critical for an athlete."

"Any athlete can't possibly be satisfied with his performance if he's not physically fit," he says.

But Ramsay says everyone, athlete or not, should be fit.

"If the average person is physically fit," says Ramsay, "he is going to feel better, do his job better, communicate with people better. It's going to help in all ways. It's important that the average persons eats right, exercises right and gets enough rest."

MORRIS (BUCKY) BUCKWALTER

Steve Colter from New Mexico State and Jerome Kersey from tiny Longwood College in Virginia proved two of the outstanding selections of the 1984 College draft.

Colter was selected in the second round, the 33rd player taken overall, and Kersey was picked in the second round, the 46th player chosen in the draft. Many players selected ahead of Colter and Kersey never played a minute in the National Basketball Association.

Yet both players contributed to Blazer success in the 1984-85 season and are counted on in future plans of Portland. And the man chiefly responsible for both drafts is Morris (Bucky) Buckwalter, assistant coach and chief scout of the Trail Blazers.

Of Colter, Buckwalter says, "I first saw him during his junior season. There was a flair about him, a certain feel and understanding for the game."

"I scouted him a couple of times as a senior. He seemed to have tightened his game up," says Buckwalter. "In one game in particular, New Mexico State fell behind early. He stole the ball a couple of times. He was double-teamed and he shot over them. At all times he knew where the other nine players on the court were. And his team won."

Buckwalter chuckles when he thinks of Kersey.

"I saw him first in the Portsmouth Invitational," says the coach. "He was wild as a March hare. But you felt he had NBA skills in running and jumping."

"The question was," says Buckwalter, "whether he was coachable. I believed he was and we drafted him."

Buckwalter is an Oregon product, a 1952 graduate of La Grande High School in the eastern part of the state. As a 6-2 forward, he led his Blue Mountain Conference team to the state tournament during his senior season. La Grande did well until meeting Lincoln High School of Portland with 7-foot center Wade (Swede) Halbrook.

"I think we held Swede to about 50 points," says Buckwalter.

Since leaving La Grande, Buckwalter has been around the basketball block.

He was a varsity regular for three seasons at University of Utah where he led his team in scoring as a sophomore. Buckwalter was all-conference in his final two seasons when Utah twice was eliminated in the NCAA playoffs by eventual national champion San Francisco in the days of Bill Russell.

After serving as an assistant for eight seasons at Utah, Buckwalter took over as head coach at Seattle University in 1967-68 and in five seasons posted a sparkling record of 79 victories and 49 defeats for a winning percentage of .617.

In the professional ranks, Buckwalter joined the Seattle SuperSonics as an assistant coach in 1972-73. When Tom Nissalke was fired in January of 1973, Buckwalter took over as head coach for the rest of the season.

In 1973-74, he was an assistant general manager to Bill Russell with the Seattle SuperSonics.

And in 1974-75 he coached the Utah Stars in the American Basketball Association. That was the season when a youngster named Moses Malone turned professional with Utah.

Buckwalter also coached the Fresno Stars of the western Basketball Association for a year before joining Portland as an assistant.

Yes, Buckwalter has been around the basketball block.

Buckwalter and his wife, Paula, live in east Multnomah County and have a basketball-playing son, 6-6 Bryan, who played junior college basketball last season.

Buckwalter serves pretty much as a bench coach until the college basketball season begins.

Then his top priority is scouting for the next draft.

"I think the combination has worked well," he says, "because I am able to maintain continuity with the team, and that is important."

RICK ADELMAN

No one in the Portland Trail Blazers' organization is more of a movie buff than Assistant Coach Rick Adelman.

In fact, after a playoff victory over Dallas last spring, Adelman went home and immediately started watching movies. He kept watching until about 1 a.m.

Then he got up at 7 in the morning, drove to Memorial Coliseum and for several hours watched more movies.

Best of all, Adelman pays no cost of admission. It's all free.

The subject matter, of course, is limited. All of the movies — actually videotapes — are of Portland Trail Blazers' games.

As crisply reported by Dwight Jaynes in the Oregonian, "Adelman uses two videotape recorders so that he can review the game on one machine, then transfer key plays to a tape on the other machine.

"Adelman reviewed Tuesday's game tape three times, then copied several key plays onto the other tape. The new tape was made for viewing by the players on the huge television screen in the locker room prior to Wednesday's practice. "Adelman edits the new tape, even logs the number on the tape counter so he can find a particular play if he wishes."

Why all the fuss?

"I go through and try to find things that will help us," says Adelman. "I don't want to leave anything out that would help us win a game."

"But as a former player," he said, "I know that you can't ask them to sit down and watch the entire game. And there's no point in a lot of repetition."

Adelman calls video taping a "necessity for coaches. Like any other coaching tool you have to supply it to your players. Some of the players use the tool better than others."

Adelman is in his third season as an assistant coach with the Trail Blazers. And when he joined the staff in 1983-84, he certainly needed no introduction.

A 6-1 guard in his playing days, he was selected by Portland from San Diego in the expansion draft of 1970 and was an original Trail Blazer. In 1971-72 he was named Portland's first team captain — there was no captain in the first season of 1970-71 — and he was the cover subject on Portland's first press guide. Overall, Adelman played seven National Basketball Association seasons, three with the Trail Blazers.

In three seasons with Portland, Adelman played in 237 games, averaged 9.8 points and 4.6 assists a contest. He shot .412 from the floor and .732 at the foul line. Adelman set what then was a Portland record for assists in leading the club with 413 and a 5.2 average in 1971-72.

As of the start of the 1985-86 season, he held Portland's all-time record for assists in a single game. On November 19, 1971, he collected 17 against the Cleveland Cavaliers. In seven NBA seasons with San Diego, Portland, Chicago, New Orleans and Kansas City, Adelman played in 462 regular-season games. He scored 3,579 points for a 7.7 average and earned 1,606 assists for a 3.5 average. He shot .415 from the floor and .713 at the foul line.

Adelman is a product of southern California. He was born in Lynwood, attended St. Pius X high school in Downey and then went on to Loyola. At Loyola, Adelman scored 1,415 points — an 18.6 average — for an all-time school record.

After retiring from the NBA, Adelman returned to Loyola to earn a master's degree in history. He then worked with Converse for a year in southern California before accepting a head coaching job in Salem, Oregon, in 1977. In six seasons at Chemeketa, Adelman's teams won 141 and lost 39.

Adelman and his wife, Mary Kay, have two daughters, Kathryn Mary, 14, and Laura, 9, and they have two sons, R.J. (for Richard Jared), 12, and David Leonard, 4.

RON CULP

When major league basketball was born in Portland on November 16, 1970, there were 26 players, 2 coaches and 2 trainers on the job in Memorial Coliseum.

Only two of these persons are now active with the Trail Blazers. One is Assistant Coach Rick Adelman, who started at guard in Portland's first NBA game. The other, ironically, is Ron Culp, trainer of the Trail Blazers.

Culp, on that opening night, was a trainer — but with the visiting Cleveland Cavaliers.

Now Culp is in his 12th season as a trainer of the Blazers and his 16th season on the job in the National Basketball Association. He moved to Portland when Lenny Wilkins became coach in 1974.

Culp has some new duties this season. He is chairman-elect of the National Basketball Trainers Association. And he is a member of the American College of Sports Medicine.

Culp now is one of the veterans of his job in the NBA. Only four other trainers have been in the NBA since the fall of 1970 when Culp joined the Cavaliers. Joe O'Toole is still with Atlanta, Dick D'Olivia with Golden State, Al Domenico with Philadelphia and Joe Proski with Phoenix.

Culp is a 1968 graduate of Bowling Green State University in Ohio. He earned a master's degree at the same school, and has done graduate work in physical therapy at Case Western Reserve University.

Before joining the Cavaliers, Culp was head trainer at Baldwin-Wallace College in Ohio. And while in Cleveland, he also was trainer for the World Tennis team, the Cleveland Nets.

In the off-season in Portland, Culp was trainer for four and one-half seasons for the Portland Timbers of the North American Soccer League.

Culp believes that the biggest single change in the NBA since he started with the league "is in the athlete himself."

"Today's athlete is considerably more intelligent, more aware of himself mentally and physically," says Culp. "He is more sophisticated along the lines of caring for himself and his own physical well being."

"I think that this has led to the general public being interested in good conditioning and physical fitness, too," says Culp.

In speaking of injuries, Culp emphasizes that they "are a part of sports."

"If you are going to participate in sports," he says, "then you are going to get hurt."

"Operating with this in mind," he says of trainers, "we are dedicated to preventing as many injuries as possible. We condition, exercise, tape, protect, categorize, organize and sympathize."

As a trainer, Culp does a lot more than care for the athletes physically. He also takes care of almost every detail on road trips of the Blazers, arranging for hotels transportation, changes in airline schedules and an endless number of other items. And Culp is so good at his job that a sports writer once said, "I hate to fly without the team anymore."

"By the time you get to the airport with the Blazers," said the sports writer, "Culp has done everything for you."

Culp's wife, Marilyn, works for the district attorney's office in Portland, and the couple has a daughter, Amanda.

A Story About Winning

A Savings Institution

There's nothing wrong with winning. As long as the spirit of competition and sportsmanship isn't lost, as long as all competitors can take pride in their efforts.

At Far West we realize that winning and healthy competition isn't limited just to athletic endeavors. It extends into the business world, as well as everyday living.

Competition between financial institutions has increased dramatically over the past few years. And at Far West we're glad. Because the results have lead to innovative products designed to meet the ever-changing needs of bank customers. And innovative financial products are an area in which we excel.

We've developed the best checking accounts available. Like Regular Checking — it's free with just a $50 minimum. Or Advantage Checking — the best financial services package on the market today, 14 bank services designed for today's customer, for only $5 a month.

We also offer loan products and savings and investment opportunities that help our customers achieve their financial goals. We've made it tough on our competition by providing our customers with convenience, innovative products and outstanding service. And we think that's healthy.

For some people winning means just being able to compete. And that's why many of Far West's staff, in conjunction with the Trail Blazers and other business leaders, have donated time and money to the 6th Man Foundation. An organization designed to help others help themselves.

We can all benefit by encouraging and helping others over obstacles. And in this we take great pride.

Whatever you're competing in, play to win. But keep alive the spirit of competition and respect your opponent.

STEVE COLTER

NUMBER: 20
HEIGHT: 6'3"
WEIGHT: 175 lbs.
POSITION: Guard
BIRTHDATE: July 24, 1962 — Phoenix, Arizona
HIGH SCHOOL: Phoenix Union
COLLEGE: New Mexico State 1984
RESIDENCE: Phoenix, Arizona
HOW ACQUIRED: Drafted in 1984, 2nd round, 33rd selection.

PROFESSIONAL CAREER — In his rookie season, Colter averaged 18.7 minutes a game. . .he owned Portland's best record in three-point field goals, hitting on 26 of 74 for .351. . .Colter started the last 22 games, first starts of his rookie season, and averaged 13 points and 5.9 assists a game in that stretch. In 13 games from March 3rd through the 26th he averaged 17.4 points a contest.

Colter scored his career high 35 points against Washington, snared a career high 8 rebounds against the Bullets and earned a career high 12 assists against Dallas. In his first playoff game against Los Angeles, Colter exploded for 26 points and earned 8 assists in 30 minutes.

COLLEGE CAREER — As a senior at New Mexico State, Colter led his club in scoring with 19.3 points a contest. He also led his team in assists with 121, more than twice the total of any teammate. He led his team in steals with 38.

Colter's college scoring was a story of steady improvement. He averaged 2.9 points a game as a freshman, climbed to 9.1 points a game as a sophomore, moved up to 16.2 points a game as a junior and then to 19.3 as a senior.

His story in shooting accuracy was pretty much the same. He was .383 as a freshman and .485 as a sophomore. Then he was .505 as a junior and .501 as a senior.

PERSONAL — Colter majored in clinical psychology in college. After winding up his basketball career, he hopes to work with mentally handicapped children.

Colter says college "helped to sharpen my abilities, taught me things I needed to know and let me grow as a person."

In his spare time, Colter enjoys playing backgammon, reading and watching television. He got into basketball because "my father played the game and my brother and I grew up around it."

RESIDENCE: Los Angeles
HOW ACQUIRED: Obtained from Denver in 1984, in exchange for Calvin Natt, Wayne Cooper and Lafayette Lever. A 1st round draft choice in 1985 and a 2nd round choice in 1984.

1984-85 SEASON — Vandeweghe led Portland in scoring with 22.4 points a game, the highest Portland average since 1973-74 when Geoff Petrie averaged 24.3. He shot a career high .896 at the foul line to set an all-time Portland record, breaking Dave Twardzik's previous high of .873 set in 1978-79. . .Vandeweghe finished second in the NBA. . .

Vandeweghe scored his single-game high of 47 points in the season opener in Kansas City. . .it was the third-highest scoring game in Portland history. He led Portland in scoring a team high 32 times. . .he scored 30 or more points 12 times to lead the club and 20 or more points 49 times to lead the team. He had more starts, 66 than any other Blazer and played 40 or more minutes 9 times.

PROFESSIONAL CAREER — Vandeweghe was the 2nd leading scorer in the NBA during the 1982-83 season and was the 3rd leading scorer during the 1983-84 season. He scored more points than any other player during those two seasons.

COLLEGE CAREER — Vandeweghe led UCLA to the NCAA title game in 1980, losing only to Louisville in the championship game. He averaged better than 19 points a game as a senior and shot .662 from the floor as a junior, best ever for a UCLA forward. . .Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bill Walton are the only Bruins with better records in field goal accuracy. . .

PERSONAL — Vendeweghe's father, Ernie, played with the New York Knicks after earning All America honors at Colgate. . .his mother Colleen, is a former Miss America. . .his sister represented the United States in the Olympic Games in 1976 in Montreal. . .

Vandeweghe, who majored in economics at UCLA, hopes to attend law school but has done sports broadcasting in the off-season. . .his favorite sports, besides basketball, are golf and tennis.

HENRY WEINHARD

Henry Weinhard
Brewmaster, No. 1, 5'10", 171 lbs.
Born: 1830, Wurtemburg, Germany
High School: Wurtemburg Area
College: Brewers apprentice

At the age of 22, and after years of apprenticeship, a talented Henry Weinhard decided he was ready for the major leagues. Upon surveying his options, Henry determined the best opportunity for a rookie such as him was in America.

In 1852 he came to the United States and immediately found a berth with the brewers in Cincinati, Ohio. He spent four years with this team polishing his skills.

As a free agent, he was intrigued by reports concerning bright openings on the Pacific coast. So early in 1856 he made the long voyage, via the isthmus, to the far west and hooked up with a Vancouver, Washington organization where he plied his trade for six months.

He then felt the time was right to make his move, so, in 1856, he established his own brewery near Fort Vancouver. It wasn't long before soldiers, loggers and trappers of the area became very big Henry Weinhard fans.

In 1860 he moved his operations to its present location on Burnside in Portland. From then on, Henry chalked up an enviable record of victories. He kept acquiring more equipment and adding more facilities to constantly increase his output while stubbornly maintaining the high level of excellence he had become known for. Everywhere along the coast Weinhard's beer was recognized as unsurpassed by any other native product.

Henry's experience and foresight prompted him to locate in Portland because he realized this area would eventually become the primary source of premium brewing ingredients in the United States. Time has proven him right.

Rare, two-row malting barley, for example, is grown in very few areas of the country, but Oregon's Klamath Basin is the most prominent. And the unique Cascade hops — which Henry recognized as being equal if not superior to the exalted Hallertau hop of Bavaria are raised here in Oregon.

Today, two labels continue in the proud, teutonic tradition set forth by Henry Weinhard 124 years ago. The perennial hometown favorite, Blitz-Weinhard, and the handmade, ultra-premium that is his namesake, Henry Weinhard's Private Reserve.

Trailblazer fans can expect a lot of good things from both of them this season. Again.

PORTLAND YEARLY ATTENDANCE

For the ninth straight season, the Portland Trail Blazers were sold out in 1984-85 for all 45 home games, 41 during the regular campaign and four in the playoffs.

This stretched Portland's record for consecutive sellouts for regular-season and playoff action to 357.

It's an all-time National Basketball Association record.

A sellout in Portland is 12,666, which includes a limit of 300 reserved standing room tickets.

The last time the Blazers failed to sell out was on April 5, 1977, when a crowd of 12,359 turned out for a game with Detroit.

In Portland's first 15 NBA seasons, the Blazers have drawn 6,695,112 fans for 613 regular season games. That's an average of 10,922 a contest.

For 640 regular-season and playoff games, the Blazers have drawn 7,038,935 fans for an average of 11,000 a contest.

In 41 regular-season road games in 1984-85, Portland played before 415,262 fans — an average of 10,128 a contest.

For the entire regular season, home and road, attendance was 934,568 for Portland games, an average of 11,397 a contest.

NOTE FROM THE EDITOR

We have changed our usual format in featuring the Blazers' opponents.

The two major changes are:

1. Individual Game Summaries. We have added to the line score of each game a summary paragraph of the game.
2. Statistical Comparisons. For years, we published the stats of the opponents versus the Blazers and visa versa. This year, we take that a step further. We compare a player's season's stats with those achieved in the Blazer series. This analysis includes a percentage comparison. In other words, this comparison tells you who was hot and who wasn't.

We hope you enjoy our treatment in this section.

BLAZERS vs. ATLANTA — Game-by-Game 1984-85

BLAZERS 100, HAWKS 91, March 5, 1985, At New Orleans

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
31-30	14-20	25-24	30-17	100-91	2,822

Blazers trailed by seven with 6:12 to go in the game, but Vandeweghe scored 10 of his game-high 28 points in the final 3:34 to spark Portland's comeback. . .The Blazers secured the win with a run of eight unanswered points during the final minute of the game, which kicked off a five-game road swing against Eastern Conference teams — the last major road trip of the season for the club. . .The victory was the second in a row for Portland, which played without the services of starting guards Paxson and Valentine, and was one of 12 Hawks contests transplanted to New Orleans for the season.

BLAZERS 114, HAWKS 101, March 17, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
38-17	27-30	29-28	20-26	114-101	12,666

The star of this one, the second win in a row for Portland, was Vandeweghe. . .The 6-foot-8 forward hit on 15-of-17 shots and scored 35 points in 31 minutes. . .He did not play the entire fourth quarter, as Ramsay had his bench cleared by the 5:58 mark of the final period. . .Blazers opened the game by hitting 20 of their first 24 shots and jumped out to a 38-17 after the first 12 minutes. . .Colter added 6-of-8 shooting, including 2-of-3 from three-point range, and added eight assists in 29 minutes. . .The victory gave Portland a 2-0 sweep of the season's series with Atlanta.

BLAZERS vs. BOSTON—Game-by-Game 1984-85

CELTICS 128, BLAZERS 127, January 27, 1985, At Boston

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
29-30	27-29	35-35	36-24	127-128	14,890

A heartbreaking loss for the Blazers, which ended a disappointing one-win, two-loss Eastern Conference road swing for Portland. . .Celtic forward Larry Bird pumped in a fallaway 20-foot jumper at the buzzer to down the Blazers, who held a 127-126 lead with three seconds left. . .Bird finished the game with 48 points . . . Portland trailed by seven with two minutes to go, but a trio of rookies, Bernard Thompson (two points), Colter (a three-pointer) and Kersey (a 19-foot jumper and a dunk), whittled the lead to 124-122 with 55 seconds to go. . .Drexler hit three-pointer to put Blazers up 125-124. . .Bird countered for a one-point Boston advantage before Drexler nailed a 17-footer to give Portland its last lead.

BLAZERS 111, CELTICS 103, February 12, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
38-21	28-25	24-35	21-22	111-103	12,666

The third win in a row for the Blazers, who were in the middle of their biggest home stand of the season — seven games. . .After carving out a 26-point lead in the second quarter, Portland nearly let the game slip away. . .Boston closed the gap to five points in the third period, but Valentine penetrated for two buckets and Colter added a jumper to push the Portland lead to nine points. . .The Celts would get no closer until the final seconds. . .The Blazers got double-figure scoring from all five starters — Valentine (23), Paxson (21), Drexler (21), Mychal Thompson (17) and Bowie (16). . .Vandeweghe did not play because of a strained right knee. . .Norris overslept and was unavailable for the beginning of the game.

BLAZERS vs. CHICAGO — Game-by-Game 1984-85

BLAZERS 141, BULLS 131, November 24, 1984, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
34-27	34-37	38-25	35-42	141-131	12,666

For the game, the Blazers hit a club-record .671 from the field (57-85). . .Paxson knocked home 14-of-18 shots, while Vandeweghe added 12-of-16 shooting to lead the Portland attack with 31 and 30 points, respectively. . .Portland outscored the Bulls 30-11 over a five-minute stretch in the third quarter to break the game open. . .The closest Chicago would get was seven points on a three-pointer from Quintin Dailey with 1:40 to play. . .Bowie returned to the lineup for the first time since Nov. 13 when he suffered a sprained ankle. . .He played 27 minutes, scored 11 points and hauled in six rebounds. . .The Blazers' inside game missed Norris, who didn't play because of a bruised shoulder. . .Portland was outrebounded 38-29.

BULLS 123, BLAZERS 115, January 22, 1985, At Chicago

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
28-25	27-40	35-25	25-33	115-123	6,321

The Blazers started the game well, hitting 14 of their first 20 shots enroute to a 28-25 first-quarter lead. . .Valentine sparked the quick start with eight points and eight assists in the period. . .Bulls led by 10 at the game's intermission, only to have the Blazers battle back to forge a 90-90 tie heading into the final quarter. . .It turned out to be the final run for Portland, which was outrebounded 28-16 in the second half and 49-32 for the game, as Chicago took advantage of numerous second shots off the offensive backboards to send the Blazers to their third-straight loss and the first of a three-game road swing. . .Bright spot for Portland was Valentine's game-high 15 assists.

BLAZERS vs. CLEVELAND — Game-by-Game 1984-85

BLAZERS 115, CAVALIERS 106, November 27, 1984 At Cleveland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
30-29	24-20	25-33	36-24	115-106	3,605

Portland's nine-point victory moved the Blazers into a first-place tie for the Pacific Division lead with the Los Angeles Lakers — the first and only time the Blazers would ride atop the division standings all season. . .The Blazers' 10th win against six losses and their fourth in a row came off a rally in the fourth quarter. . .Cleveland rattled off eight-straight points to take a 92-85 lead with 9:08 left in the game. . .But the Portland pressing unit of Valentine, Drexler, Bowie, Carr and Kersey, sparked a 19-2 spurt over the next seven minutes and the Blazers won going away. . .Carr, sidelined early in the year with knee problems, had one of his best games since coming back with 22 points and 11 rebounds in 28 minutes.

CAVALIERS 111, BLAZERS 103, March 1, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
33-25	29-29	21-26	20-31	103-111	12,666

Portland led by 16 (60-44) with three minutes to go before halftime, but watched as the Cavs ran off a 10-2 spurt during the final two minutes of the half and then reel off 10 unanswered points at the start of the third quarter to take a 64-62 lead. . .Valentine was a casualty in that first half, injuring his left ankle just 48 seconds into the second quarter and did not return to the floor. . .The Blazers squandered a 91-83 advantage with nine minutes left in the game, but still managed a 103-103 tie with 2:40 remaining before World B. Free scored the game's final eight points to even the two teams' season series at one win apiece. . .Vandeweghe returned to action after missing nine games with a strained knee and scored 17 points. . .Portland was led by Drexler, who scored his first NBA triple-double with 19 points, 10 assists and 10 rebounds.

BLAZERS vs. DALLAS — Game-by-Game 1984-85

MAVERICKS 101, BLAZERS, 94, November 13, 1984 At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
32-15	24-26	18-26	20-34	94-101	12,666

The Blazers lost more than just a game in this one. . .Bowie went down with a sprained right ankle with 9:09 remaining in the third quarter and did not return to the lineup for 11 days. . .The Blazers saw a 15-point lead in the third quarter evaporate, as the offense began to sputter and produced only 38 points in the second half. . .The Mavericks, meanwhile, hit 25-of-42 shots in the final 24 minutes. . .Portland played without the services of Drexler (death in the family) and Carr (knee).

MAVERICKS 108, BLAZERS 102, January 8, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
21-21	21-32	31-23	29-32	102-108	12,666

With Mychal Thompson, Vandeweghe and Carr out of the lineup, the Blazers still managed to battle back from a 65-48 third-quarter deficit to tie the game at 76-76 on a three-point play by Valentine to start the fourth quarter. . .But Dallas responded with a 12-point run and Portland would get no closer than four points the rest of the way.

MAVERICKS 124, BLAZERS 101, January 13, 1985, At Dallas

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
17-26	24-21	26-41	34-36	101-124	17,007

It was the Blazers' 13th loss in the last 17 games, as the two teams combined to set an NBA record for total attempts and makes of three-point shots (11-of-24). . .Dallas' Dale Ellis led his club with 6-for-8 three-point shooting. . .The Mavericks outrebounded the Blazers 49-36, getting 23 points out of 18 offensive rebounds.

MAVERICKS 104, BLAZERS 98, February 20, 1985, At Dallas

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
20-27	27-20	33-23	18-34	98-104	16,793

The Blazers rallied to take a 74-59 lead in the third quarter on the strength of a 27-12 run. . .But Bowie suffered symptoms of a "mild concussion" after taking an elbow to the mouth from the Mavs' Mark Aguirre and did not play the rest of the game. . .Blazers hit 12-of-19 shots at the beginning of the third quarter, but managed just 1-of-13 to start the fourth and Dallas responded with a 20-2 streak to put the game away.

BLAZERS vs. DENVER — Game-by-Game 1984-85

NUGGETS 128, BLAZERS 125, November 8, 1984, at Denver

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
29-41	29-22	31-36	36-29	125-128	8,754

The Blazers scored 12-straight points, capping a string where they cashed in on 15-of-18 possessions, to take their only lead of the game at 120-118 with 3:20 to go. . .They would tie the game at 124-124, but Vandeweghe, who had made 50-of-51 previous free throws, made only one of two inside the final minute and Dan Issel and ex-Blazer Calvin Natt both nailed buckets to secure the win. . .Blazers suffered from 26 turnovers which Denver converted into 33 points, as well as a 45-point explosion by the Nuggets' Alex English.

NUGGETS 123, BLAZERS 122, December 11, 1984, At Denver

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
34-30	20-33	38-37	30-23	122-123	8,256

Portland rallied to trail by just one with three seconds left, but Paxson's 8-footer at the buzzer missed to send the Blazers to their 10th defeat in 23 games. . .All 10 Portland losses have been by 10 points or less. . .A 13-turnover second quarter, plus a27-11 Denver run, erased a 43-36 Portland lead and helped send the Blazers to their third loss in a row.

NUGGETS 123, BLAZERS 120, January 19, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
29-28	36-30	31-36	24-29	120-123	12,666

For the 14th time in 15 games decided by seven points or less, the Blazers came out on the losing end. . .Portland blocked 11 shots, three each by Mychal Thompson, Bowie and Drexler, but were undone by 19 turnovers and a 49-41 rebounding deficit. . .The Blazers were ahead by two points heading into the fourth quarter, but failed to score over a two-minute span when Denver broke a 112-112 deadlock to take the lead for good.

NUGGETS 129, BLAZERS 117, March 30, 1985, At Denver

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
33-34	34-30	25-32	25-33	117-129	15,810

The Blazers played their second game in two nights without the services of Carr (sore left knee), Bowie (groin injury) and Paxson (dislocated finger). . .Still, Portland trailed by only four going into the final quarter, but failed to score on its first seven possessions of the period as Denver, which got 32 layups for the game, snapped the Blazers' four-game winning streak.

BLAZERS 117, NUGGETS 112, April 14, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
28-35	33-25	24-24	32-28	117-112	12,666

The Blazers' first win in five tries over the Nuggets helped the club secure the No. 5 Western Conference playoff berth. . .Portland opens against Dallas in the first round of the playoffs. . .It was the Blazers' 22nd win in the last 34 games and put Portland's season record at 42-40. . .The game saw 18 lead changes and 16 ties before Carr's two free throws put the Blazers ahead for good at 113-111 with 1:55 to go. . .Drexler scored 35 points, including 13 of Portland's last 22.

BLAZERS vs. DETROIT — Game-by-Game 1984-85

PISTONS 120, BLAZERS 113, November 28, 1984, At Detroit

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
29-25	20-30	30-37	34-28	11-120	10,259

The Blazers bench betrayed them in this one. . .Outside of the combined 27 points from Colter and Drexler, Norris, Kersey and Bernard Thompson contributed only four points in 17 total minutes. . .The loss overshadowed one of the better Blazer comebacks to date. . .Portland trailed by 17 (108-91) with five and a half minutes to go then went on a 20-8 tear that trimmed the lead to 116-111 on Drexler's three-pointer with 40 seconds to go. . .But that's as close as Portland got. . .The second quarter proved crucial for the Blazers, who let a 59-55 lead disappear when Detroit scored six-straight times down the floor to take command.

BLAZERS 143, PISTONS 123, March 19, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
34-32	34-23	36-33	39-35	143-123	12,666

The Blazers turned from timid to tough in securing their third win in a row and a split of their two-game season series with Detroit. . .With 30 seconds to go in the third quarter, an altercation broke out between Norris, who threw an elbow, and the Pistons' Kelly Tripucka, who retaliated with a roundhouse that missed, and eventually Bill Laimbeer. . .Tripucka was ejected and Portland went on to raise its lead over Phoenix for second place in the Pacific Division to two games. . .Mychal Thompson came off the bench to score 30 points and grab 11 rebounds, while the Blazers hit all 20 of their free throws for the game — only the sixth time in the team's history Portland has been perfect from the line.

BLAZERS vs. GOLDEN STATE — Game-by-Game 1984-85

BLAZERS 109, WARRIORS 97, November 11, 1984, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
25-30	23-15	29-32	32-20	109-97	12,666

Despite a 48-point performance by the Warriors' Purvis Short, the Blazers rallied for the comeback win behind a 5:23 span at the end of the third quarter and the beginning of the fourth which saw Portland run off 17 unanswered points. . .It turned a 77-69 deficit into an 86-77 advantange. . .Bowie keyed the spurt with nine fourth-quarter rebounds and 14 points.

WARRIORS 105, BLAZERS 92, December 14, 1984, At Oakland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
22-28	28-20	25-26	17-31	92-105	4,858

Golden State ran off 10-straight points to start the fourth quarter to erase a 75-74 deficit and send the Blazers to their fourth loss in a row. . .Portland was outscored 31-17 in the final 12 minutes and Ramsay was moved to say afterwards, "That was the poorest we've played this year. We've got to get this straightened out. This isn't the way I want to play."

BLAZERS 106, WARRIORS 97, December 25, 1984, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
21-23	31-29	27-24	27-21	106-97	12,666

The Blazers' Christmas present came in the form of a win that broke a seven-game losing streak. . .Valentine came off the bench in the fourth quarter to hit three-straight jumpers to break open a tight game and give Portland a 93-86 advantage with 6:24 to go. . .The Blazer lead never dropped below five after that. . .Paxson played just two minutes before dislocating the middle finger on his left hand.

BLAZERS 129, WARRIORS 109, January 31, 1985, At Oakland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
25-29	26-23	39-24	39-33	129-109	6,717

After trailing by one (52-51) at the break, Blazers came out on fire in the third period. . .They hit 63 percent of their shots from the field and took a 90-76 advantage into the final 12 minutes. . .Portland's defense keyed the win, forcing 22 turnovers which converted into 32 Blazers points and Golden State's 16th-straight loss.

WARRIORS 124, BLAZERS 120, February 28, 1985, At Oakland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
20-26	27-28	34-35	39-35	120-124	5,355

With Vandeweghe sidelined for eight games with a knee strain and Carr still recovering from knee surgery, the Blazers kept the game close and trailed by only one, 101-100, with 6:39 to play. . .Paxson had 13 of his 30 points in the fourth quarter, but Carr's absence in the fourth quarter, after he hit 7-of-9 shots for the game, opened the door for Warriors, who responded with an eight-point run to retake command of the game.

BLAZERS 126, WARRIORS 101, March 15, 1984, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
38-16	22-34	31-23	35-28	126-101	12,666

A 25-6 Blazers' spurt in the first quarter got Portland off and running early. . .Vandeweghe keyed the first-quarter outburst with 17 points, as Portland went on to build a 10-point halftime lead and never looked back. . .Vandeweghe finished with 30 points. . .Valentine played his first minutes since injuring an ankle six games ago.

BLAZERS vs. HOUSTON — Game-by-Game 1984-85

ROCKETS 127, BLAZERS 120, December 8, 1984, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
31-34	28-37	38-23	23-33	120-127	12,666

Trailing by 12 at the half, the Blazers, behind Vandeweghe's 14 points, led by three (97-94) heading into final quarter. . .But Portland failed on its first four possessions of the period, Houston tied the game and went ahead 114-108 on ex-Blazer Lionel Hollins' jumper. . .Portland would get no closer the rest of the way.

ROCKETS 108, BLAZERS 92, December 29, 1984, At Houston

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
21-27	18-25	27-26	26-30	92-100	16,016

Houston ran off a 10-point run in the second quarter, led by 13 at the half and never looked back. . .It was the Blazers' seventh-straight road loss and ninth loss overall in last 10 games. . .Portland scoring leaders Paxson and Vandeweghe played with sore backs and hit only 9 and 4 points, respectively.

BLAZERS 121, ROCKETS 117, January 15, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
33-32	23-22	40-31	25-32	121-117	12,666

Paxson led the Blazers' attack by hitting 16-of-18 shots and scoring 40 points. . .Mychal Thompson hit two free throws with 25 seconds to play to snap a 117-117 tie and lift Portland to its first victory of the season in a game decided by six points or less.

ROCKETS 117, BLAZERS 103, February 22, 1985, At Houston

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
22-27	28-29	26-36	27-25	103-117	16,016

Third loss in a row for the Blazers, who trailed by only six at halftime. . .But the Rockets ran off a 14-6 string during the first four minutes of the third quarter to take command of the game, 70-56. . .The game featured the battle between the top two rookies of the '84 NBA draft. . .Houston's Akeem Olajuwon scored 35 points, had 10 rebounds and two blocked shots, while Bowie countered with 26 points, 11 rebounds and six blocks.

BLAZERS 127, HOUSTON 113, April 2, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
33-22	33-38	32-33	29-20	127-113	12,666

Only the fifth time all year the Blazers played with a full 12-man roster. . .Trailing by three (86-83) with 3:43 left in the third period, Drexler ignited a Portland comeback with two steals and two dunks to put the Blazers ahead to stay. . .Paxson played his first game back since dislocating a finger three weeks ago and scored 10 points coming off the bench.

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
31-28	31-24	34-20	22-29	118-101	12,666

Ramsay experimented with the 6-6 Drexler and the 6-8 Vandeweghe against the bigger Pacers and the strategy paid off. . .The pair combined for 49 points, as the Blazers ran off a 13-2 streak in the third quarter to turn a 10-point halftime lead into a 74-54 advantage. . .The lead climbed as high as 31 before the Blazers coasted home.

BLAZERS 136, PACERS 104, January 23, 1985, At Indianapolis

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
30-21	29-24	37-29	40-30	136-104	9,834

So complete was the Blazers' dominance that Ramsay said after wards, "It was a very good game for us. This is what we're striving for.". . .A 14-point halftime lead turned into a rout when the Blazers hit four-straight shots to open the third period and scored on 11 of their first 12 possessions. . .Vandeweghe hit 10-of-15 shots to help Portland to a .594 shooting percentage.

BLAZERS vs. L.A. CLIPPERS — Game-by-Game 1984-85

BLAZERS 131, CLIPPERS 112, November 3, 1984, At Los Angeles

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
28-31	32-22	34-32	37-27	131-112	8,901

Key quarter for Portland was the third, when the Blazers scored four-straight transition baskets to cap a 10-point run which upped Portland's lead to 12 at 79-68. . .It was Bowie's first start at center and he scored 13 points and grabbed 12 rebounds against Clippers' centers James Donaldson and ex-Blazer Bill Walton.

BLAZERS 113, CLIPPERS 105, November 19, 1984, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
27-26	25-28	32-28	29-23	113-105	12,666

Despite being whipped on the boards by 18, the Blazers were able to force 22 Los Angeles turnovers and turned them into 33 points. . .The game was tied at 96-96 with 6:21 left when Vendeweghe hit a bucket and Paxson added two to give Portland a six-point lead. . .The Clippers would get no closer than four the rest of the night.

CLIPPRS 106, BLAZERS 100, December 13, 1984, At Los Angeles

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
29-22	20-33	23-22	28-29	100-106	8,401

Portland let this one get away in the final minutes. . .Leading by three at 92-89 with four minutes left, the Blazers were outscored 10-1 during the next three minutes and suffered their third loss in a row and the second straight on the road. . .Junior Bridgeman sparked the Clippers' winning rally with eight points in the final eight minutes.

BLAZERS 110, CLIPPERS 99, February 26, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
27-26	30-32	26-21	27-20	110-99	12,666

The Blazers' second victory in a row moved them into sole possession of second place in the Pacific Division. . .Drexler's two assists and three points keyed a nine-point Portland run in the final period which opened up a 13-point lead and sealed the win. . .Valentine hit 13-of-15 shots to lead the Blazers.

BLAZERS 126, CLIPPERS 123, March 23, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
35-28	37-31	26-34	28-30	126-123	12,666

Portland nearly blew a 20-point lead, as Los Angeles battled back to within two points with 2:27 to play. . .But Bowie hit a free throw, stole a pass and then tipped in a Vandeweghe miss to up the Blazers' lead to 124-121 with under a minute to play. . .Norm Nixon's three-point try at the buzzer missed.

BLAZERS 120, CLIPPERS 99, March 25, 1985, At Los Angeles

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
33-24	25-26	25-18	37-31	120-99	9,788

With Colter hitting 8-of-8 shots and scoring 17 first-half points, the Blazers sprinted to a 15-point lead after three quarters. . .Portland's bench helped up that margin to 21 in the final 12 minutes, as the Blazers won their second game in a row and wrapped up a 5-1 advantage in the season's series with LA.

BLAZERS vs. L.A. LAKERS — Game-by-Game 1984-85

LAKERS 124, BLAZERS 116, November 4, 1984, At Los Angeles

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
25-35	28-29	21-30	42-30	116-124	14,148

The Blazers lost this one in final quarter. . .Led by Abdul-Jabbar's eight points, the Lakers burst to a 10-point lead. . .Portland got to within 110-103 late in the fourth quarter, but Jamaal Wilkes scored eight points in the last eight minutes to help snuff out the Portland rally. . .Jabbar, playing against Bowie for the first time, hit 11-of-13 shots and scored a game-high 25 points.

LAKERS 130, BLAZERS 126, November 9, 1984, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
36-39	36-35	28-32	26-34	126-130	12,666

Byron Scott hit 12-of-16 shots, including a clutch jumper from the top of the top of the key with eight seconds left to pace the Lakers. . .Ramsay missed the final 1:40 of the game after being ejected by official Bennett Salvatori — the first time Ramsay has been ejected at Memorial Coliseum since the 77-78 season. . .The Blazers led by four going into the final quarter, but Jamaal Wilkes came off the Lakers bench to score eight of his 16 points to spark the Los Angeles rally.

LAKERS 120, BLAZERS 95, January 4, 1985, At Los Angeles

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
20-26	23-32	29-36	23-26	95-120	14,979

Portland suffered its 11th loss in the last 13 games and its eight-straight road defeat. . .The Blazers missed their first eight shots, as the Lakers jumped to a 12-0 lead and never looked back. . .Portland played without the services of Mychal Thompson (flu) and Carr (knee surgery).

LAKERS 122, BLAZERS 106, January 29, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
27-35	39-24	14-28	26-35	106-122	12,666

Portland held a seven-point lead at the half (66-59), but managed to hit only 13-of-45 shots in the second half. . .The Lakers countered with a 28-14 advantage in the third quarter to take a seven-point bulge of its own into the last 12 minutes and won with ease.

BLAZERS 116, LAKERS 113 (OT), March 26, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
34-26	29-33	26-25	17-22 (10-7)	116-113	12,666

The Blazers' first win of the year over the Lakers ended Los Angeles' 10-game winning streak. . .Vandeweghe converted a three-point play to tie the game at 106-106 and send it into overtime, where the Blazers held LA to just seven points. . .Colter scored on a break and Drexler put in an offensive rebound to put Portland ahead to stay in overtime.

LAKERS 135, BLAZERS 133 (OT), April 7, 1985, At Los Angeles

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
25-40	36-27	30-33	33-24 (9-11)	133-135	13,186

Portland fought back from an 11-point deficit entering the final quarter to cut the Lakers lead to 119-118 on Drexler's three-pointer with 1:15 to go in regulation. . .Bowie then hit a free throw and followed with a bucket on a feed from Paxson to tie the game with 12 seconds left. . .Los Angeles jumped out to a five-point lead in overtime and held on to win.

BLAZERS vs. PHILADELPHIA — Game-by-Game 1984-85

SIXERS 126, BLAZERS 116, November 30, 1984, At Philadelphia

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
29-29	27-30	27-36	33-31	116-126	14,785

Despite Moses Malone and Charles Barkley combining for 46 points and 28 rebounds, the Blazers trailed by only three at halftime and 76-71 in the third quarter. . .But Portland failed to capitalize on four-straight Sixer misses, scoring only two points. . .Philadelphia then pushed its lead to 12 points, where it stayed for the rest of the game.

SIXERS 111, BLAZERS 106, January 1, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
23-36	28-24	30-25	25-26	106-111	12,666

Portland started the New Year with its 10th defeat in the last 11 games. . .The Blazers fought back from a 17-point deficit in the second quarter to trail 103-99 inside the game's final minute. . .But two fallaway 15-footers by Malone, who scored a game-high 30 points for Philly, secured the Sixers' sweep of the season's series. . .Portland's record in games decided by seven points or less fell to a dismal 0-11.

BLAZERS vs. PHOENIX — Game-by-Game 1984-85

SUNS 139, BLAZERS 130 (3 OTs), November 1, 1984, At Phoenix

1	2	3	4	OT	Att.
21-26	25-22	31-26	26-29	(27-36)	14,660

Beaten by 25 on the boards (74-49), Portland still had a chance to win in regulation and the first two overtimes. . .But two shots by Valentine and one by Vandeweghe missed their marks. . .The Suns capitalized by outscoring the Blazers 14-5 in the third overtime. . .Larry Nance sparked Phoenix with 44 points and 17 rebounds.

BLAZERS, 116, SUNS 99, November 6, 1984, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
32-19	22-23	34-34	28-23	116-99	12,666

The Suns battled back from a 12-point halftime deficit to trail by only four (58-54) in the third quarter. . .Bowie returned to the game and grabbed nine rebounds and blocked five shots in the final 24 minutes to turn the momentum back in the Blazers' favor. . .Portland had a 12-point lead going into the fourth quarter and never faltered.

BLAZERS 112, SUNS 104, December 4, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
29-33	24-19	29-24	30-28	112-104	12,666

Outrebounded 121-90 in the first two games against Phoenix, Carr returned to the lineup following knee surgery to hit 8-of-9 shots and grab 10 rebounds. . .Portland, which held a 45-34 edge on the boards, put the Suns away with a 14-2 spurt in the final quarter. . .Drexler missed the game with a bruised knee suffered three nights earlier against New York.

SUNS 110, BLAZERS 108, December 22, 1984, At Phoenix

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
31-23	24-33	32-34	21-20	108-110	11,144

It was the seventh loss in a row for the Blazers, who scored just two points in the last 2:30 of the game. . .Phoenix led 108-106 when Mychal Thompson's jump-ball tap was converted into a layup by Michael Holton to shut the door on Portland. . .The Blazers played without Paxson (back spasms) and Carr (swollen knee).

SUNS 114, BLAZERS 104, March 21, 1985, At Phoenix

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
14-20	29-24	32-30	29-40	104-114	10,499

Portland had its three-game winning streak snapped by the Suns, who played without starters Nance, Walter Davis and James Edwards and still outrebounded Portland 54-37. . .Despite going 6-for-20 with 10 turnovers in the opening quarter, the Blazers led by one going into the game's final 12 minutes. . .But Portland self-destructed with five fouls in the first 1:32 of the fourth period.

BLAZERS 116, SUNS 100, April 9, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
33-16	30-31	26-33	27-30	116-100	12,666

The Blazers broke to a 33-16 edge in the first quarter and never trailed again. . .Bowie snared 14 rebounds and Valentine came off the bench to hit 7-of-8 shots for the game, which featured no less than three separate verbal confrontations between the two clubs. . .Portland's victory evened the season's series at three games apiece.

BLAZERS vs. SACRAMENTO KINGS — Game-by-Game 1984-85

BLAZERS 140, KINGS 119, October 27, 1984, At Kansas City

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
29-28	35-31	36-32	40-28	140-119	11,321

In his first game in a Blazer uniform, Vandeweghe hit 19-of-23 shots en route to a 47-point night — the third highest single-game point total in the club's history. . .With Portland leading only 107-104 with 8:28 to go, Vandeweghe came off bench to score his final 13 points and help snuff out the Kinds' rally.

KINGS 118, BLAZERS 113, December 20, 1984, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
37-31	30-27	30-36	16-24	113-118	12,666

The Blazers led by 12 early in the game and owned a four-point lead as late at 9:12 to go in the game. . .But the Kings went on a 14-2 tear and Portland never got closer than three points the rest of the way. . .It was Blazers' sixth-straight loss — the longest losing streak, to date, in five seasons.

BLAZERS 115, KINGS 96, February 17, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
25-31	29-19	30-21	31-25	115-96	12,666

Bowie left the game with a bruised thigh four minutes into the final period, but not before scoring 21 points, grabbing 9 rebounds and blocking 3 shots in helping Portland to its fifth-straight victory.

KINGS 116, BLAZERS 96, February 19, 1985, At Kansas City

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
29-26	16-28	27-28	24-34	96-116	3,424

The Blazers' five-game winning streak was snapped, as Portland suffered a five-minute scoreless streak in the second quarter that allowed Kansas City to hit 14 unanswered points and take control of the game. . .Blazers closed to 72-70 with 2:43 left in the third quarter, but the Kings ran off an 18-4 spurt during the next six minutes to secure the win. . .Carr played for the first time in 22 games, scoring six points in 11 minutes.

BLAZERS 120, KINGS 114, March 12, 1985, At Kansas City

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
27-30	32-39	30-21	25-30	114-120	3,482

Another close one the Blazers let get away. . .After leading 106-105 with 3:40 to play, the Kings hit their next four shots down the stretch to drop the Blazers' record in games decided by three points or less to 0-6.

BLAZERS vs. SAN ANTONIO — Game-by-Game 1984-85

BLAZERS 113, SPURS 96, December 6, 1984, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
24-21	33-31	30-27	26-17	113-96	12,666

Portland's 48-39 rebounding edge made up for its mediocre shooting (.480) and 22 turnovers. . .The Blazers led throughout, but didn't put the game away until Carr, who finished with 13 rebounds, and Mychal Thompson hit back-to-back buckets to spark a 10-5 run with 4:23 left in the game.

SPURS 141, BLAZERS 120, December 27, 1984, At San Antonio

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
22-37	33-25	33-44	32-35	120-141	7,782

San Antonio exploded for a 19-2 run midway through the opening quarter to put the game away early. . .It was the 8th loss in the last nine games for the Blazers, who failed to score on 15 of its next 16 possessions after jumping out to a 10-6 first-quarter lead.

BLAZERS 123, SPURS 103, January 11, 1985, At San Antonio

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
35-22	27-28	24-27	37-26	123-103	9,277

The Blazers picked up their first road win in the last nine games behind 65 percent shooting in the first quarter and an early 13-point lead. . .Portland maintained its margin until the last four minutes of the game when the Blazers scored on 11 of its last 12 possessions to turn the game into a rout. . .Bowie finished with eight blocked shots — just one off the team record held by Mychal Thompson and Bill Walton.

SPURS 104, BLAZERS 93, February 1, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
27-26	28-29	23-27	15-22	93-104	12,666

Poor shooting, particularly from the free throw line, doomed the Blazers effort. . .Portland trailed 92-90 after a Vandeweghe layup, but scored only three points during the last 3:42 of the game. . .The Spurs countered with 12 points. . .The Blazers hit only 15-of-33 free throws, with Mychal Thompson connecting on only 6-of-20.

BLAZERS 137, SPURS 121, February 24, 1985, At San Antonio

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
36-25	36-36	32-31	33-29	137-121	8,969

The victory, sparked by Drexler's team-high 37 points, 10 rebounds, nine assists, four steals and four blocked shots, ended a three-game losing streak for Portland. . .Drexler hit 11 of the Blazers' first 16 points in the second half to help snuff out a rally by the Spurs, who had trimmed the lead to 75-70.

BLAZERS vs. SEATTLE — Game-by-Game 1984-85

BLAZERS 115, SONICS 83, October 30, 1984, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
30-30	26-18	29-20	30-15	115-83	12,666

Kersey came off the bench with 4:01 to play in the second quarter and sparked the Blazers to a 14-6 run. . .Kersey had two steals, two assists and a vicious dunk to snap a 42-42 tie and lift Portland to a win in its home opener.

SONICS 91, BLAZERS 89, November 16, 1984, At Seattle

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
15-27	31-21	22-28	21-15	89-91	10,904

Portland was outscored 27-15 in the first quarter and could never quite climb out of the hole. . .During the first 12 minutes, the Blazers shot a miserable 6-for-17 from the floor, committed eight turnovers and were outrebounded 16-5. . .Still, Portland made it close when Drexler canned a 21-footer just inside the three-point line in the waning seconds.

SONICS 109, BLAZERS 99, December 18, 1984, At Seattle

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
23-24	24-24	15-32	37-29	99-109	7,091

The Blazers dug themselves an 18-point hole by the end of the third quarter en route to their fifth-straight loss. . .Portland hi just 5-of-14 shots and turned the ball over seven times in the quarter, as Seattle held a 32-15 scoring edge. . .Four points was as close as the Blazers would get the rest of the night.

BLAZERS 123, SONICS 89, January 3, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
30-26	37-15	26-27	30-21	123-89	12,666

It was the most one-sided victory ever over the Sonics. . .Portland blocked 14 shots — six by Bowie — and Vandeweghe added 11-of-16 shooting from the field. . .The Blazers blew the game open in the second quarter when every man in a Portland uniform scored en route to a 37-15 advantage.

BLAZERS 125, SONICS 99, March 29, 1985, At Seattle

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
40-27	26-19	29-24	30-29	125-99	11,088

Portland's 40-point opening quarter paved the way for the victory, which allowed the Blazers to move past San Antonio for the fifth spot in the Western Conference playoff lineup. . .Mychal Thompson made the most of his first start in 13 games with 22 points and 15 rebounds. . .Portland was without Paxson (dislocated finger), Bowie (groin injury) and Carr (knee).

BLAZERS 145, SONICS 120, April 5, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
39-31	37-26	29-31	40-32	145-120	12,666

Portland's fourth win in six games over the Sonics produced the season's highest point total. . .A 25-12 run by the Blazer reserves in the second quarter keyed the victory. . .Eight players hit in double figures for Portland, which shot .622 for the game. . .Paxson came off the bench to hit 10-of-13 shots and score 20 points.

BLAZERS vs. UTAH — Game-by-Game 1984-85

BLAZERS 129, JAZZ 120, November 15, 1984, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
30-30	38-27	29-31	32-32	129-120	12,666

The Blazers held a nine-point edge going into the final quarter. . .But Utah whittled the margin down to two — 104-102 — with 9:25 left in the game. . .Portland countered with a 15-4 spurt, culminated by Kersey's explosive length-of-the-floor jam. . .Kersey hit 7-of-12 shots and hauled in nine rebounds to spark the Blazers.

JAZZ 127, BLAZERS 122, January 18, 1985, At Utah

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
27-22	23-33	35-37	37-35	122-127	8,549

Portland was eaten alive in this one by Utah's Mark Eaton, who blocked 14 shots, grabbed 20 rebounds and scored 12 points. . .Eaton's block total was just three short of the NBA record held by Elmore Smith, who accomplished the feat against the Blazers in 1973.

BLAZERS 126, JAZZ 101, February 5, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
35-19	25-25	37-32	29-30	126-106	12,666

Portland breezed to a 60-44 halftime advantage and never faltered en route to the victory, which broke a four-game losing streak on the Memorial Coliseum hardwood. . .Guards Colter and Valentine combined to hit 13-of-17 shots and score 30 points, while six Blazers scored in double figures.

BLAZERS 121, JAZZ 93, March 3, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
31-22	30-20	34-20	26-31	121-93	12,666

With Paxson (sore toe) and Valentine (sprained ankle) absent, Colter and Drexler started at guard and responded by combining for 44 points and 13 assists. . .Included in Colter's 25-point total was a Blazer first — a four-point play. . .After hitting a three-point field goal, Colter was fouled by Utah's John Stockton and made the free throw with 3:08 to go in the game.

JAZZ 145, BLAZERS 107, April 11, 1985, At Utah

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
20-31	25-33	22-37	40-40	107-145	10,435

Outscored by 38 points during the first three quarters, the Blazers suffered their worst defeat of the season and the seventh-worst defeat in the franchise's history. . .The Jazz scored 24 of the first 36 points of the second half to turn the game into a rout. . .Loss dropped Portland into a tie with Utah and San Antonio for the Western Conference's fifth playoff spot.

BLAZERS vs. WASHINGTON — Game-by-Game 1984-85

BLAZERS 93, BULLETS 89, February 15, 1985, At Portland

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
22-22	17-28	28-22	26-17	93-89	12,666

Portland fought back from a 16-point deficit in the third quarter to notch its fourth win in the row. . .The Blazers trailed 87-80 with 4:26 to go, but ripped off six unanswered points before Mychal Thompson's dunk gave Portland defense shined down the stretch, allowing only two points during the game's final four and-a-half minutes.

BULLETS 127, BLAZERS 121 (2 OTs), March 6, 1985, At Washington

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
28-20	27-33	28-25	21-26	(17-23) 121-127	5,228

Washington guard Jeff Malone scored 10 of the Bullets' 12 points in the second overtime and hit for 40 overall to spark the win. . .Colter, who finished with 35 points, kept the Blazers in the game with a seven-footer with four seconds left to second the game into overtime and then a three-point bomb with 14 seconds left in the extra period to force another five-minute quarter.

BLAZER SATELLITE RADIO

BILL SCHONELY

Known to some as "The Legend," Bill Schonely is truly one of the greats of sportscasting.

Schonely undoubtedly has the most recognized voice in Oregon. After 15 years behind the Blazer microphone, reaching the largest statewide network in the NBA, it's no wonder why. His "pictures" of the games are perhaps the most colorful in the business. "Rip City," the battle cry of the Blazers, has become a term universally used by Blazer fans in their day-to-day conversations.

Originally, Schonely was the voice of the Western Hockey League's Seattle Totems and the NHL's Oakland Seals. He also described the action for the now-defunct Seattle Pilots, who became the Milwaukee Brewers of the American League.

GEOFF PETRIE

The first-ever Trail Blazer, Geoff Petrie, is Bill Schonely's new partner behind the Blazer radio microphone. Petrie replaces Dave Twardzik, who has become a full-time account executive on the Blazers' marketing staff.

Petrie shared co-rookie of the year honors with Dave Cowens of the Boston Celtics in 1970, the Blazers' inaugural season. He still holds down the position as the Blazers all-time leading scorer, with 9732 points over six seasons. In addition, he holds Blazer records for assists and minutes played.

New to the broadcasting business, Petrie should have no problem adjusting under the auspicious of Schonely. The two have grown up together in the Blazers organization, and have remained good friends ever since.

THE BLAZER CABLE HALF-HOUR

Blazer Broadcasting is producing a new half-hour show, The Blazer Cable Half-Hour. This special program will air on all Blazer Cable affiliates 30 minutes prior to all 15 home games scheduled for cable.

The program is free to all subscribers, regardless of whether or not they subscribe to Blazer Cable.

The format of each program revolves around an in-depth feature interview with NBA coaches and players. Also included will be action features from NBA Video and live courtside analysis prior to the game.

BLAZER MAILBAG WITH STEVE JONES

Steve Jones' weekly column, Blazer Mailbag, can now be found in ten newspapers throughout the Pacific. Beginning in the 1983-84 season, Blazer Mailbag became a regular feature in This Week magazine, which is delivered in the mail to over 600,000 homes every week. Now, Steve's column has been syndicated in the following papers:

Portland, This Week magazine, Wednesdays
Astoria, The Daily Astorian, Wednesdays
Vancouver, The Vancouver Columbian, Tuesdays
Bend, The Bend Bulletin, Fridays
The Dalles, The Dalles Chronicle, Sundays
Newport, Newport News Times, Wednesdays
Corvallis, Corvallis Gazette Times, Tuesdays
Ontario, Ontario Argus-Observer, Sundays
Salem, Willamette University Collegian, each week
Ashland, Ashland Daily Tidings, Wednesdays

BLAZER TELEVISION NETWORK

Flagship station KOIN-TV, Channel 6, will again air 20 Blazer road games this season. The Blazer Television Network reaches nearly every television set in Oregon from network affiliates KOBI in Medford, KOTI in Klamath Falls and Group W Cable in Eugene.

STEVE JONES

A Portland native, Steve Jones comes from Franklin High School and the University of Oregon. He was an all-star guard in the now-defunct ABA, then retired with the Trail Blazers in 1976 after the two leagues merged.

Now, Jones has become a veteran of the broadcast business. He is entering his third year as the play-by-play announcer for all Blazer telecasts. But he didn't come without first earning an impressive resume.

In 1976 (the season after he retired), Jones became a color commentator for CBS. He was part of the CBS announce team that handled the Trail Blazers famed Championship game. Also that year, he was the color analyst for the Blazers. Steve continued for three seasons with CBS, and the Denver Nuggets.

Finally, in 1979, Jones came home to Portland to join Bill Schonely on the Blazer radio microphone. During his tenure with the Blazers, Steve has additionally been with the USA Cable Network as a commentator for NBA games.

That year, he stepped aside on radio to devote a full-time effort to a new radio talk show, Blazer Sports Talk. The show has become the most popular sports talk show in Oregon. It now is aired not only prior to every Blazer game, but also on Monday nights throughout the year.

Jones also has a syndicated column, Blazer Mailbag, which is syndicated throughout the state of Oregon.

LARRY STEELE

From the Blazers' third-round draft choice out of Kentucky in 1971 to the Blazers' marketing manager, Larry Steele has come a long way!

Steele serves as Steve Jones' sidekick for all Blazer road telecasts (20) and Blazer Cable. This will be his sixth season on television.

During his nine years as a Blazer player, Steele played in more games than any player in Blazer history.

Today, Larry works extensively with Blazer television sponsors and in media sales. He also is involved in various community affairs.

BLAZER SPORTS TALK

Blazer Sports Talk, hosted by Steve Jones, airs on KGW 90 minutes prior to every game. Blazer Sports Talk Special Edition will air 50 weeks a year on Monday nights, from 6-8 p.m.

"Starting in the center position for the #1 team..."

Toyota Dealers are the number one team because they have the players that lead the division in sales year after year. Like 4 x 4 trucks. And the Toyota Tercel 4 x 4 Wagon. And when it comes to import cars, Toyota Dealers have the number one selling import in the entire U.S. So see your local Toyota Dealer and get a number one deal.
